

Art is Art?

Jason Fogelson catapulted to the forefront of the theatrical world with his brilliant direction of this landmark production of David Mamet's play. Eugene Green stars as Arthur; an overbearing, burned out writer whose obsession with squirrels nearly drives his new protégé Edmund (Matt Boston) to distraction. But when Edmund teams up with the building's enigmatic cleaning woman (Lauri Bell), he is in danger of following Arthur's bleak path.

This performance was taped at California State University's Little Theatre on November 5, 1983 during the production's world tour.
